Lyceum Course Begins

Those who did not attend the performance of the Cosmopolitan Ladies Quartette at the court house last Monday night missed a rare treat. As the first number of the High School Lyceum Course it speaks well for what may be expected in the five remaining numbers. Miss Agar, the leader of the company was a reader of marked ability and her captivating ways readily won the audience to her. She was ably supported by Miss Maloney at the piano and Miss Claybrook on the violin. Miss Neal's contralto showed promise of a splendid future. The saxophone and Hawaiian numbers given by the quartette were especially enjoyable.
The next number on this course will appear here on November 3rd and the ladies of the School Improvement Association hope that a large crowd of the people of Somerville will be present at that time. The next attraction will be the LeWitte Entertainers and from press comments we may expect at that time a very enjoyable evening.
The public is constantly looking for something different in the way of entertainment, and while the LeWitte Entertainers are not new in this chosen field, they have an entirely new and unique form of entertainment that we take great pleasure in presenting to the public. This entertainment has been given all over the world and has never failed to create a growing sensation wherever it has appeared. The principal feature of the entertainment is the rapid change work, and Mr. LeWitte's marvelous work in this line enables him to give an entire play of thirty minutes duration, presenting each of the seven different characters himself, making each change complete in such a short space of time that he leaves his audience astonished. The program consists of readings, vocal solos, pianologues, quick-change work, etc. This work shows high artistic finish, and the press comments from the chief cities of the world proclaim this entertainment to be one of unusual merit.
Following the LeWittes, we will have the Boyds, a most versatile duo; the Howard Wade Kimsey Concert Company; the Metropolitan Lyceum Stars, a company of finished artists, and the Castle Square Entertainers, most famous male quartette. Season tickets for the rest of the season, five numbers, are on sale by the School Improvement Association or at the High School at two dollars ($2.00) each. All school children can get these tickets for half this amount. Let us rally to the support of this good cause and give the ladies a helping hand.

County Fair Success.

The Fair held in this city last week was a success in every point, and this is the way it is viewed by all who saw it. Its success has been a matter of conversation and satisfaction to those interested in the progress and development of better farming in the county. In nearly every department the number of exhibits was much larger than was in the last years fair, while the quality of the exhibits would do credit to any county in the land.
Estimates of conservative citizens are that in the two days of the fair at least five thousand men, women, and children visited the exhibits, and this estimate, we believe not far from right. From early morn till nightfall both days the public square and nearly streets were a perfect throng of humanity, viewing the various departments of the fair, and a better humored crowd was never seen, and thruout the two days there was not a breach of orderly conduct.
The poultry pens arranged by C. C. Williams, and considered as ample for all probable needs, proved to be not half enough to accomodate the almost 200 fowls which were entered. So, also did the cattle pens and horse and mule pens built by W. S. Latta prove entirely insufficient for the one and a quarter hundred horses and mules and nearly eighty cattle in the show. The poultry entries more than doubled those of last year while the cattle entries were four times last year's and horses and mules five times last year's.
The hog entries numbered a few more than last year, many hogs being kept away because of the prevalence of cholera in many parts of the county. And in quality the exhibits of live stock are right up to the scratch. It must have done the hearts of every lover of fine stock good to see the excellent mules, horses, beef and dairy cattle, hogs and poultry, all of pure breeding and of such fine quality. Most of this stock was taken off pasture and shown with none of the extra attention and curled hair met with in most shows but any novice could tell that the quality was in them.
Deserving of special mention was a brood mare entered by W. L. Diffie, of Williston with five of her mule colts, all of splendid size and excellent value, and she had borne her owner five other mules which he had sold and for which he had received about $600.

The exhibits of the school poultry clubs were most creditable. In the entries of the Braden clubs there were about three dozen specimens which reflect credit on their owners and on the school that has induced these children to an interest in poultry, while other clubs with fewer entries had birds just as worthy and which shared with Braden the individual prizes, while the club prize, a handsome loving cup given by the Somerville Bank & Trust Co., was won by the Braden club.

The entries in the agricultural department showed that efforts of diversified farming in Fayette County have not been without a splendid degree of success. The exhibits in this department included almost every species of forage crops, soil improving crop, grains, grasses, clovers, vegetables that have been suggested for planting in this section, and of quality that proves we can grow anything in way of field and garden truck that we want. A basket of nine varieties of vegetables from one garden was sent to The Falcon office after the fair closed, while one individual booth had more than twenty five varieties of field and garden crops.

The canning club exhibit arranged in the chancery court room would have done credit to the State Fair. Vegetables and fruits canned in glass by the girls of these clubs made the mouth of an epicure fairly over run as he viewed them, and many cans in tin on the shelves of this department were evidence of the good work these clubs have done thru the year under the direction of Miss Elise Catron, County Agent.

The loving cup offered by the Fayette County Bank for the best canning club exhibit was won by the Parks school. A number of canning club members who accepted loans at 5 per cent from the Somerville Bank & Trust Co. during the year repaid their loans during the two days of the fair.

The exhibits of the woman's department were hardly as numerous as they were in 1915, but some of the rarest and most excellent and tasty ever seen in any fair were among them, and they were sufficient to hold the attention for hours of any one who loves the neat, the pretty, and the useful, from the hand of woman.

Notes on the Fair

The fine stock from the Alexander & Wessell farm just east of this city made a fine showing at the fair last week. The stable of draft and driving horses, and good jacks would be hard to beat. And their Duroc hogs and Shorthorn cattle are genuine prize winners.

The individual booths of J. A. McNabb of the fifth district and W. N. McFadden and H. A. Allen of the eighth district were among the most interesting things at the recent county fair. These gentlemen went to some trouble in the preparation of their exhibits and they showed for all that was expended in time, money and energy on them. They would do credit to any fair.

The counterpane of Mrs. M. L. Wilkinson shown in the Woman's Department of the county fair last week was one of the curiosities of the fair. It was made in Ireland nearly one hundred and fifty years ago.

The second oldest article in the fair last week as far as The Falcon has learned was a comfort entered by J. M. Culbreath, and which was made by the first Mrs. Culbreath before her marriage and was probably more than fifty years of age.

The first prize Poland China boar is the property of J. A. Winfrey Jr. and would weigh not far from a thousand pounds if fat enough to butcher.

Few men in this county have seen a busier day than were the two days of the fair for W. S. Latta who was the general superintendent of the fair. And the splendid way in which every thing moved was evidence that the directors made no mistake when they chose him for that important duty.

Most merchants about the square were kept busy the two fair days waiting on customers. The cotton gins of the town were all kept going and cotton was selling at 17 cents and above that figure, seed as high as $49 per ton, and business was moving right along while the best fair the county has had was in progress.

Dr. W. S. A. Castles of Memphis, formerly of Oakland, was among visitors to the fair.

It was gratifying to see exhibits and visitors to the fair from every section of the county. Some of the best exhibits at the fair came from the far corners of the county, among them the poultry from Braden, Cochran horses from Braden, J. F. Teague horses from Moscow, Dr. G. T. Brinkley driving horses from Fayette Corner. It was a genuine COUNTY FAIR.

The Parks School canning club exhibit which won first prize and the Fayette County Bank Loving cup was a credit to the Parks community in the fifteenth district, and particularly to the school and its teacher, Miss Maud Parks.

As you read this bear in mind that the premiums awarded last week can not be paid until you pay your subscription to the premium fund. Before the fair was undertaken the directors secured subscriptions to cover the expenses and premiums. The treasurer last Saturday informed the secretary that less than one fourth of these subscriptions have been paid. These should be attended to AT ONCE so that checks may be issued to the prize winners and mailed out to them.

The splendid music furnished during the two days of the fair was a feature of fine entertainment and the way the crowds flocked to it when the band began to play was a guarantee of the appreciation for the music by the people.

An ex-convict tried hard to set up an opposition fair Thursday in front of the Starks hotel, when he attempted to make an address on prison life, tho his real purpose was to sell books. City authorities were appealed to and he was stopped from his harangue which could not possibly bring profit to the fair nor any body here.

One of the most useful exhibits at the fair and one of the best was the gasoline engine and electric light outfit of C. A. Oliver, the Ford man. He installed an engine and dynamo in the court house yard and kept it running thruout the fair, furnishing electric lights all around the grounds by a line of incandescent lights strung for the occasion. Mr. Oliver installs these outfits in any home and makes the engine furnish power for all kinds of home work.

Pay your premium subscription TODAY so that the boys and girls and men and women who won prizes last week can be paid at once.

The complete list of winnings in the fair of last week will be published next week after it has been submitted to the board of directors which has been called to meet Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the court house.

The board of directors of the fair is hereby called to meet in the chancery court room next Tuesday, October 24, at 2 o'clock for the purpose of ratifying the awards of premiums at the fair of last week and to transact other important duties in way of winding up the business of the fair.

J. B. Burnett, President.
W. T. Loggins, Secretary.

Gov. Rye Here Tuesday.

Last Tuesday afternoon at One o'clock Gov. Tom C. Rye addressed a large gathering of Fayette county democrats in this city, the gathering comfortably filled the circuit court room in which the speaking was held. There was a large number of ladies in the court room and an appreciative audience listened attentively to the exposition of the administration record as given by the chief of the state.

Gov. Rye was in fine fettle and there was not a break in the attention of his audience which he held from the first sentence to the last of an hour-and-a-half address. Somerville audiences are peculiarly quiet, and this is true of political as well as other audiences here, and wild applause is hardly known with them, but several times during the governor's address applause was given when he exposed a weakness of his opponent's untenable positions or gave just credit to his own administration for the good work it has done in saving thousands to the state and its taxpayers.

His address was the one he has delivered at other points thruout the state with some changes in the manner of handling a few of the subjects discussed. And the manner of his delivery was particularly pleasing to his party adherents.

All opposition to the ticket seems wiped out here and a few democrats who have said they could not support this candidate or that, even the nominees of the party, are ready to give it up and swear allegiance to the whole ticket, and the only trouble that confronts Fayette county democrats is getting voters to the polls on November 7 when the election is held. It is not a question of opposition but one of inactivity and indifference that will keep this county from giving the ticket its normal democratic vote, and the governor's coming to Somerville has had a fine effect.

He arrived in Somerville Monday night from Jackson and went to quarters already arranged for him in the Hotel Bryson, Tuesday morning he was seen by a number of friends in his rooms and over town, and when the hour for the speaking arrived he was escorted to the court house by a committee appointed for that purpose and was introduced by Hon. C. A. Stainback of the local bar. At the conclusion of his address he was presented with a lovely bouquet by four young ladies, Misses Geneva Albright, May Taylor, Adelaide Claiborne and Jewel Jordan, Miss Albright making the presentation talk, and after the speaking Gov. Rye left by automobile for Memphis where he joined the W. J. Bryan party for Wednesday's tour of the state.

From Democratic Headquarters

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 20.-The Republicans appear to be up to the same old tricks they tried to work when they were depending on Democratic votes to maintain them in power. They are playing to Democratic votes, and at the same time are abusing Democrats. In one of his speeches the other day Mr. Hooper said that Congressman McKellar's friends in the cities were preparing to "knife" Gov. Rye; and that this was excuse enough for Gov. Rye's friends to "knife" Mr. McKellar.

Judge L. D. Hill, chairman of the State Democratic Campaign Committee denounced this Republican bid for votes in short order.

"This is the most despicable thing Democrats were ever called upon to listen to," said Judge Hill. "The trouble is that the Republicans have no issue either in the state or the nation, and they resort to bids of this kind for Democratic votes. This is a straight fight between the Republican party at its worst and the Democratic party at its best. There is absolutely no division among the Democrats.

"The truth is, if there really is to be any difference in the vote in the cities, Gov. Rye will lead the ticket. Even in Memphis, Mr. McKellar's own home, Gov. Rye will run neck and neck with him. In Knoxville, Chattanooga and Nashville there will be practically no difference in the vote.

"Democrats are for the ticket because it stands for something. This is a Democratic year. The people of Tennessee are proud of the Democratic record in the state and nation. They certainly have no patience with Hooper or any other Republican who runs about the state jeering at Woodrow Wilson and trying to persuade Democrats to mock him in the eyes of the world."

In East Tennessee Mr. Hooper criticized Mr. McKellar severely for voting against notorious pension graft at Washington. Hooper is in Middle and West Tennessee bidding for the votes of Democrats. He religiously avoids that line of criticism now. But since Mr. Hooper is in this part of the state wouldn't it be a good time to tell the voters why, as a member of the legislature of 1893 he voted against a bill to give the Confederate soldiers of Tennessee a small pension to save him in his declining years?

In Lincoln County the other day the owners of the toll roads were leaders in the campaign which resulted in the defeat of a good roads bond issue. Toll roads are antiquated. They are antagonistic to the spirit of Democratic progress. John W. Overall, the Republican candidate for governor who calls himself a "plain business man and farmer," is the chief owner of 30 miles of turnpike between Lebanon and Smithville. Is it any wonder that Candidate Overall has nothing to say to the people about good roads and better roads?
